

American privacy laws require us to sign documentation allowing our information to be shared in literally every instance EXCEPT telephone solicitation. Now, we as a people have very clearly requested we NOT be harrassed by telephone solicitors, that our homes and offices NOT be constantly interrupted by them, yet our rights to that PRIVACY are somehow not constitutional?!? What idiot came up with that one out? Let's get back to the basics here and stop the madness that has the telemarketers laughing all the way to the banks, and give the power to make their own choice on telemarketing back to the American people. We willingly and eagerly signed up -- voiced our "vote" -- to STOP telemarketers from calling us. How about listening to us instead of spending millions in useless pointless debate? JUST DO IT.
